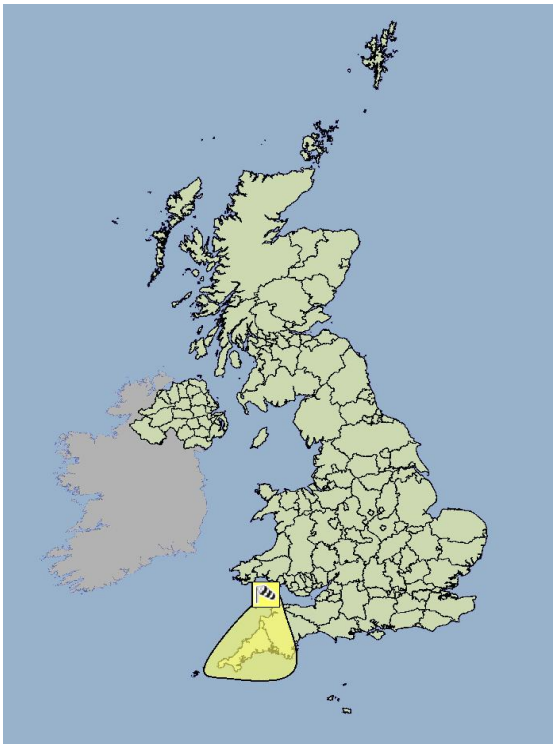
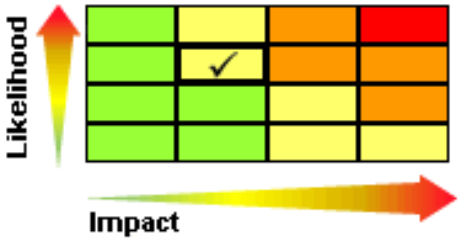
National Severe Weather Warning Service





Chief Forecasters Assessment
Whilst it is a generally windy day across the southwest of England a small area of even stronger winds will run across Devon and Cornwall this afternoon.

This will bring a short increase in winds that may cause some localised disruption.

The Met Office have issued a Yellow Warning of Wind

Valid from 14:00 on Sun, 05th Mar 2017 until 18:00 on Sun, 05th Mar 2017

An area of very strong winds will run over Cornwall and Devon this afternoon.

Gusts of 70 mph are possible along the north coasts with locally 60 mph inland before winds ease a little from the west, though it will remain gusty.

Some localised disruption to travel is possible with tricky conditions for high sided vehicles in particular as well as some spray and wave overtopping along exposed coastal areas.
